Comments:

CHALLENGES:

*A huge barrier we are experiencing is with getting mother's from the rural area to Crisis Nursery to utilize their respite hours. There also seems to be a disconnect with them traveling to other locations for Parent/Child Interaction Group and Support Groups as well. This seems to fall solely on their lack of transportation. Crisis Nursery is continuing to develop plans to address this issue.

*Crisis Nursery has also found that mother's are more interested in participating in home visit services rather than engaging in Parent/Child Interaction Groups. This is due primarily to the reservations they have about leaving the comfort of their own homes. They have expressed to the Family Specialist that the one on one attention they receive in the home helps to put them at ease and better address their concerns.

SUCSESSES:

*We have successfully completed several outreach presentations at rural churches, rural police stations, teen parenting groups, physician offices, television interviews and continue to conduct extensive outreach. Crisis Nursery has also developed a program committee that is devoted to the further development of Beyond Blue.

*We have successfully completed six sessions of support groups and ended the 6-week session with a potluck for close family and friends to attend as well.

*We have successfully conducted one Beyond Blue Panel presentation in order to bring awareness, of perinatal depression, to board members and the community.

TESTIMONIAL:

A mother contacted Crisis Nursery because she was close to her due date and began having suicidal thoughts. A Crisis Nursery Family Specialist contacted this mother on a Sunday morning and visited her while she was still in the hospital. She said, "I didn't know that you worked on weekends, I would love for you to come see me". The Family Specialist continues to see this mother weekly, she is currently engaged in support groups and is excited to attend parent/child interaction groups once her child is older.

Case Scenario 1

An older person from rural Mahomet was seen in February of 2009 regarding an ongoing problem that began to be addressed February of 2008.

To give some history, the client arrived as a walk-in at CCRPC looking for assistance with the Circuit Breaker application February of 2008. An assessment revealed that he was eligible for a number of other resources and those linkages were made: enrollment in Low Income Subsidy (LIS) for prescription drugs and the Medicare Savings Program where DHS pays client's Medicare B premium. He had been unaware of the Medicare D prescription drug plans that began in January of 2006, so Senior Services Case Manager helped him enroll in one. In March 2008, he was notified that he will owe a late enrollment penalty on his monthly premium. The case manager assisted the client with appealing this. He was receiving low income subsidy from Social Security which entitled him to have the late penalty waived. The case manager also advocated with the Medicare D plan to put a hold on charging the penalty until a decision was made. Over the year that followed, neither client nor case manager could find anyone at Medicare who could give any information about the status of the appeal.

In February of 2009, client received a letter from Maximus Federal Services asking for more information from client. Case manager assisted client with faxing the requested information. Later that month, client received a letter from Maximus stating that "the appeal decision is favorable". He then received a letter from his Medicare D plan confirming that he does not have to pay them the premium penalty amount. Case manager also assisted client with completing update form for DHS to be able to continue to provide assistance in the Medicare Savings Program as well as the annual Circuit Breaker application.

Case Scenario 2

A Thomasboro couple arrive in office with request for information on IL Cares Rx/Circuit Breaker (they were over income for this program) and a "911 for Seniors" cell telephone in the case of emergencies.

The husband travels to Danville Veterans Administration for his medical care and they hoped to travel out of state to see a relative. Although they had not used a cell phone, they felt it would be beneficial in case of emergencies. This worker contacted 2 programs TRIAD/SALT, RSVP to identify the availability of these phones. Eventually, a phone was obtained, the couple were instructed on use of this 911 cell phone and the case worker entered "ICE" (in case of emergency) contact number for them on that phone.

Information and telephone number for Eldercare Locator provided for their out of state relatives to identify local resources for their needs. A copy of the 2009 Senior Mini Resource Guide was provided to them as a resource.
